

HUMAN AND HOPE ASSOCIATION

KHMER LANGUAGE PROGRAM

FUNDING PROPOSAL

About Human & Hope Association

Human and Hope Association is a grassroots community centre based in Siem Reap, Cambodia. Established in 2011, we are run entirely by local staff and aim to alleviate poverty in our surrounding community.

Instead of giving out direct aid, we invest in education, vocational training and community support projects that have a long-term impact. These include:

Education Programs

Aimed at children aged 5-18 years old, these programs supplement their public school education, setting them up for a brighter future. We provide the following classes in: English, living values, Khmer, preschool, art and library. We also provide ongoing programs in staff development.

Vocational Training Programs

Aimed towards all community members, many of whom were unable to complete high school and most of whom are illiterate. While this proves challenging at times in delivery of the program, the results are wholeheartedly worth it upon seeing improvements to their confidence. We currently have a sewing program, sewing cooperative and a home sewing business program.

Community Support Programs

The community projects at Human and Hope Association are targeted towards the most vulnerable community members who are the poorest of the poor. Whilst challenging, we believe in empowering the community with the knowledge and skills to achieve a sustainable future. They currently run workshops, outreach and opportunity scholarships, family farm programs and university scholarships.

We involve the community in our program development and take monitoring and evaluation very seriously. We are a leading NGO due to our commitment to local empowerment our ability to raise 25% of our income each year through sustainable methods.

About Cambodia

Modern-day Cambodia is the descendant of the ancient Khmer Empire, a powerful empire that stretched over much of South East Asia between the 8th Century and 15th century.

Despite its proud history, Cambodia fell into a dark period as it was drawn into conflict during the Vietnam War and then fell to the Khmer Rouge in 1975. Between this time and 1978, leader Pol Pot attempted to turn Cambodia into a purely Communist country, sending millions out into the countryside and deserting Cambodia's once energetic cities. Intellectuals and city-dwellers bore the brunt of Pol Pot's brutal regime initially, but disease, starvation and Khmer Rouge cruelty saw the death toll rise to an estimated two million, over a quarter of the population.

Cambodia had to build themselves up again, and it hasn't been easy. Cambodia remains the poorest ASEAN country by GNI per capita (World Bank, 2016). While its rapid economic growth saw it reach lower-middle income status in 2015, 35% of Cambodians people still live below the international poverty line measured at US$1.90 per person per day (UNDP, 2018). 40% of Cambodia's rural population live in multi-dimensional poverty, while 45% of Cambodians living in poverty are 19 years old or younger (UNDP, 2018). Over 8.1 million Cambodians are near-poor, meaning if they lost 30 cents of income per day they will be thrust back into the poverty bracket. Also, the unequal distribution of economic gains means many Cambodians still have poor levels of health, low levels of education, skills and employment, and struggle to access essential services.

Domestic violence is also a significant issue for many Cambodian women, with 21% of women reporting they have experienced physical and/or sexual intimate partner violence (UN Women, 2015). 1 in 4 Cambodians over the age of 15 are illiterate. 36% of Cambodian children are involved in child labour. 40% of children in primary school do not progress beyond grade five. Only 35% of females at the appropriate age enrol in secondary school. With poverty and gender issues come other issues such as lack of hygiene, poor health, lack of family planning, domestic violence, poor school attendance, high school dropout rates, etc. We aim to change these statistics in our community.

Khmer Language Program

Public schools in Cambodia tend to have up to sixty students in each class, leaving little ability for teachers to spend time on the students who need extra help. To address this, Human and Hope Association provides their illiterate students with supplementary Khmer language classes.

In these classes, the students learn the Khmer alphabet, which consists of 33 consonants, 23 dependent vowels, and 13 independent vowels. Within a year, 100% of students in the Khmer language program are literate and able to progress at public school. In 2017, five of HHA's Khmer language students came top of their class at public school, a mean feat as they were illiterate just months before. The classes are capped at 18 students, to ensure quality education.

The Director of Human and Hope Association holds teaching workshops for the teachers at public school in an effort to improve the teaching methods and ensure that Human and Hope Association's Khmer language program can be made redundant in the future.

Every Friday, the students participate in living values workshops that supplement the students' academic learnings. The considerations we take for granted in countries like Australia, such as personal hygiene and setting appropriate boundaries, are not as well understood in the Cambodian community. The absence of teaching these life skills puts the achievement of academic outcomes at risk. In many ways, these life skills workshops are critical enabling factors. A child's health and security are a necessary first step before we can hope to improve their chances for a happier and more productive life through a better education. Our living values workshops have seen school suspensions drop from five per year to nil per year.

Benefits of the Program

There are numerous benefits of the Khmer language program:

- Learning their native language substantially increases the chances of the students remaining in public school and moving onto middle school
- The student's behaviour increases as a result of studying under the guidance of positive Cambodian role models. This change in behaviour then spreads out into the community.
- Children are able to access education at a young age, thus develop a love for learning. This increases the likelihood of them staying in public school.
- The students are able to join social events they otherwise wouldn't have had the opportunity to join, such as circus shows, the Giant Puppet Parade and film festivals. This broadens their horizons and expands their minds.
- The parents and relatives of the students benefit from this project. They are invited to join community workshops on topics such as parenting, domestic violence, health, traffic law and chemical-free farming. These training workshops allow them to understand their rights and responsibilities, the laws, and increase their knowledge, so it addresses their social issues and improves their families' well-being.

Khmer Language Team

Education and Library Assistant – Phat Phyrom

Phyrom was born in Pouk District, not too far from Siem Reap. He graduated with a Bachelor of Law in 2014, and studies English in his spare time. Phyrom is responsible for engaging the students in learning through teaching English, Khmer, art class and running the library.

“I like working at HHA because I want to share my knowledge to the children. I like talking with them because they are funny and give me good memories. I especially love getting smiles from them. They make me happy when I speak with them and teach them in class and in the library.”

Education and Community Assistant - Ngoy Bunrong

Bunrong came from a rural area in Takeo Province, Cambodia. After graduating high school, he left his hometown to continue his university studies in Siem Reap. Through his willingness and commitment to learning, Bunrong received a university scholarship. He graduated with a Bachelor of English Literature in 2018.

“I am very excited because I can share my knowledge to students and I definitely improve my English language quickly. I also can learn and share knowledge to my teamwork.”

Budget

The budget breakdown below will ensure 36 Cambodian children receive access to Khmer language classes for a full year.

Education & Library Assistant Salary	$1,055.00
Education & Community Assistant Salary	$1,044.00
Study Resources	$161.00
TOTAL	AUD$2,260.00
